Ada Bojana is located on a sandy island which in 1852. the river Bojana caused an estuary. It is a unique island in the Adriatic. Size of about 600 ha. It has rich flora and fauna - various plants and specimens of birds are found there. The richness of its fish waters, the impassability of its forests, the sandy shore of 3,800 meters make it a unique tourist attraction. The mild Mediterranean climate with over 217 sunny days a year and the swimming season from April to November and as a fine sand composed of silicon rocks, shells and corals have a beneficial effect on the body. The island is a unique oasis for nudists. A corner where nudism fans and adventure lovers can seclude and indulge in the beneficial magic of the waves and the shallow sea, or cool off where the Bojana River ends its course.
