In an effort to contribute to and support domestic cinema, the Docfest Greek Documentary Festival brings together and promotes the entire annual Greek documentary production, thereby supporting independent filmmakers. Its strong and dynamic presence over the years has made it one of the largest cultural events in the country. Inspired artists and new creators give viewers the opportunity, for six days, to meditate and dream through the stories of their distinguished films. Each year, alongside the Festival, events, workshops, book presentations, photography exhibitions, painting exhibitions and workshops are held in collaboration with public educational institutions.
