“Nautilus”, the Maritime Museum was created with the aim of providing its visitor with natural beauty, knowledge and at the same time enhancing its sensitivity to environmental protection. At the beginning, a ten-minute documentary is screened in the projection room, ranging from the creation of the universe to the earliest forms of life on the planet, and the visitor enters the main hall, where its illumination gives the bottom feel. At the same time he can observe and admire some 3,000 exhibits from around the world, set in 28 showcases, through an impressive tour guided by guides and learning how these creatures inspired man to evolve.
