On the road from Niksic to Boka Kotorska there is Grahovo. It is a place that had the status of a municipality in 1964. Today, about 100 people live in Grahovo. The village has many cultural and historical monuments. 2 km from the house there is a lake where you can swim and there is a walking trail. In the village there is also the church of St. Nikola was built in 1499 during the reign of Prince Mirko Vujacic and was built by builders from Dalmatia. Nearby there are other interesting places such as a pond where the endemic species of frog with tail is preserved. The Ethno household prepares traditional homemade food, the same one that is prepared for the household itself from organic and certified agricultural products from their property. Walking, biking to the lake, swimming in the lake, or day-to-day farm work will make your stay unforgettable.
