Benković castle is a stone building consisting of a tall rectangular tower and a rectangular courtyard. The corners of the courtyard walls are reinforced with two round towers upgraded during the Turks in the 16th century. The castle was originally built in the 15th century. Today, Benković castle is used by Benkovac Heritage Museum. The Castle is the center of cultural life in the town of Benkovac as it makes a perfect stage for various events that many visitors enjoy its space and views that leave one breathless. For many, the view alone is worth the visit while the Heritage Museum offers much more in addition.
