They rise high toward placid blue skies decorated by beautiful bird species just soaring through the peaks. The hiking trails inside Paklenica National Park are actually part of a longer hiking trail in the Velebit mountains. It stretches to about a hundred kilometers. An interesting fact in case you are wondering what it would be like to trail all the way through these cliffs. In the meadows, you will see lots of bluebells, sage, and heather among many others. It is home to approximately 4,000 animal species so you can expect to come across some rare animals along your walk. Walking and hiking paths all offer stunning views of the sea and the region . It has 400 climbing routes, some of which are the most famous in Europe.
