Modric Cave is a go-to landmark near Dalmatias National park Paklenica. Even though this cave was discovered back in the 80s, it was only opened to the public back in 2004. Today, a visit inside the Modric Cave is different from the case with other caves. It has a challenging setup, as there are no paths, steps, or lightning. Entrance to the Modric cave is allowed only with proper equipment; a helmet, and a lamp in order to wander freely inside. There are several corridors, halls, and gaps in this impressive 840-meter-long cave.
