Just like in every city that lives by the sea and of the sea, the fish market is a special place in Zadar. There are chatter, small quarrels, laughter, the latest gossip, wise advice, meetings of all generations, a place where you can feel the true soul of a Mediterranean city. Not much has changed since the very beginning of the old Zadar fish market. Especially on weekends, this place becomes for a moment the center of the whole city, a place where you can meet an old friend, neighbor, acquaintance. And for those who live from the sea and fish also a source of income. As an old fishing town, Zadar is proud of its well-known fish market, and the specific smell that spreads through known as the smell of the sea. Although not everyone will agree on the categorization of such a fragrance as positive, it is certainly unique and of special significance for all the people from Zadar.
