KvartArt is an urban Zadar festival that brings together young creatives and their projects and through them aims to revitalize neglected public spaces, encourage new thinking about the function of public urban spaces and the content of urban neighborhoods and promote urban culture and popularize youth art. Festival promotes the urban way of life through all kinds of art (music, drama, film, art, literature, etc.) and presents them in an informal form, both through street performances and through concerts, educational workshops, screenings, games, entertainment, educational workshops and the like. Activities are aimed for young people and enriched by the visitors of numerous educators, leaders, artists and activists. The knowledge of experts and experience of young people are fulfilling the goal of the festival - to create a creative atmosphere within which new ideas, new acquaintances, new projects, new reality will emerge.
